WILD PLUNGE OF A CAR

Crashed Into Columbia Club's Boat House.

MUCH PROPERTY WRECKED

Motorman Stuck to His Post-Exciting Ride Down a Slippery Hill-Motor Jumped the Track and Lunged On-Front of the Building Torn Away.

An electric car with a highly agitated motorman clinging to the front brakehandle, vainly attempting to check its Street to the river, yesterday afternoon, and had it not been for the solid beams on which the Columbia boat house is constructed, car and motorman would have plunged into the Potomac. As it was, the car carried before it the front portion of the building, and now stands in the boat house with a mass of splintered woodall that remains of a number of fine shells, gigs, outriggers, canoes and bat-teaus-piled up in confusion around it. That the motorman was not killed is stuck to his post and did not leave The car until it had come to a full stop. Shortly before 4 o'clock car No. 5, of the Georgetown and Tenleytown Railway, in charge of Conductor Joseph Moran and Motorman Hayden, arrived at the Georgetown terminus of the road and started down the hill toward the switch, where the trolley is changed and the car run up on the main track to begin its return trip little short of a miracle. He pluckily to Tenleytown. The tracks were slippery because of the rain. The car passed over the switch at the usual rate of speed and when Hayden applied the brake it refused to stop. The notorman tried sand to check the rapidly increasing speed of the car, but to no avail. The conductor saw the danger and endeavored to connect the trolley, which had slipped off, but his efforts were trutte. He was not on the car, having futile. He was not on the car, having got off to make the change of trolley for he return. But now the car had passed beyond all control and attained a terrifle rate of speed. Hayden remained at his post and speed. Hayden remained at his post and divided his attention between the brake and the sand. The descent of the hill was accomplished in a few moments, and when the car reached Water Street, where there is a sharp curve in the track, it jumped the rails and plunged across the small space intervening between the railway tracks and the boat house. It has the building source in front carry hit the building square in front, carry-ing with it the big double doors and near-ly the entire front of the building, and did not stop until it had reached the middle of the boat house, leaving in its trails mass of debris, representing sev-eral thousand dollars' worth of fine shells, pleasure craft, and other floating property, owned by the club.

The actual loss will amount to about $2.000, but a sentimental value, only appreciated by those who have won and lost races in different parts of the country with shells and boats which gain a strong hold upon the affections of the athletes, attached to nearly all of the ty, owned by the club. property destroyed. Three four-oared shells, a single shell, a single gig, five double out-riggers, three clinker boats, two batteaus and two canoes were in-cluded in the ruin, and two handsome eight-oared shells were badly damaged. A quantity of valuable spoon oars were also destroyed. The damage to the boat house is estimated at $50.

The car was but slightly damaged, the only evidence of its wild lunge down the hill and into the boat house being a de-molished platform and four broken panes of glass, three in front and one in the side peculiar feature of the accident was the narrow escape of one valuable canoe, which was hurled from its rack forty feet to the other end of the building, and was not injured in the least.

Hayden, the motorman, was uninjured. Gen Carpenter and Cavalry Troop After his car had come to a standstill in the middle of the boat house he climbed down from the rear platform, whither he had gone at the last minute to apply the brake from that end in the hope of slack-ening the car's speed when it was seen that a collision was unavoidable.

Several years ago a similar accident occurred on this same hill, but no damage was done, as the car swung from its path before hitting the boathouse. The motor-man in this, as in the former accident, was hundicapped in his control of the car by having to use sand from a can over the dashboard of the car, instead of hav-ing a sandbox appliance. After the acci-dent the company sent a sand car from its sheds to sprinkle the tracks. Portunately, there were no passenger in the car, it having reached the terminu

Policeman Edwards, of the Seventh precinct, was a witness of the accident and rushed to the boathouse expecting to find the motorman dead. He reported the matter to the officials of the road and a watchman was sent to take charge of the club's property.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE SOLD.

Purchased by a New York Syndicate

Who Will Reopen 1.

The Grand Opera House property was sold yesterday afternoon at public auction to a New York syndicate for $106,0000. Edwin M. Gates, who purchased the property for the syndicate, said that the theater would be opened immediately by the people he represented, but that he was not at liberty to go into details as to their plans until he had consulted further

It was rumored before the sale took place that Col. O. G. Staples contemplated bidding in the property, as he supposed to already own about $80,000 of the bonds of the old company. Col. Staples remarked, after the sale, that he considered the amount the property was sold for to be a fair price at the present time.

CHILLY WESTERN WINDS

Washington : Will Have Fine Thanksgiving Weather-Blizzard Surging Through the Central States-Freezing Temperature on the Gulf Const-No Snowfall Here.

The man in the weather bureau, wh looks to the West for Winter winds and blizzards, says a cold wave will reach Washington today. It will begin to arrive early-about daylight-and by the time it is all here, which will be evening,

John W. Albaugh was the first manager, and after a persistent effort to make it pay, gave it up. Since that time it has had many ambitious theatrical managers, but it is understood that out of the lot not one has succeeded.

With a new lease of life, and a new and enterprising management back of it. Going further into the future, the giving, with cold, crisp air, the kind that that Gen. Gonze and Col. Picquart will be makes the celery snap, and the cran-berries hard, and the skies will be clear, as all Thanksgiving skies should be. It will not snow; it will just be cold; the man who has not yet purchased an overcoat walk around with his hands in erection of the building in 1884, was made the occasion for a notable gathering. The first shovelful of dirt was taken out by the is from the North, where they would > confined to Washington. It will extend into all the country 'round about here; down the Shenandoah Valley, where ef-fete crainberry jelly is unknown, and where the turkey is aided and abetted by the good, old kind of cramberry sauce, with lots of juice and the hulls on; over into Alexandria, where ducks a geess have supplanted the turkey as manksgiving diet, and are considered the proper thing, and even into the less preten-tious suburbs, Baltimore particularly, where the people eat their Thanksgiving dinners in hotels.

The cold wave from the Rocky Mountains passed the Middle West yesterday and reached Pittsburg and the region of the Alleghany Mountains early last forcing the thermometer down thirty and forty degrees on both sides of the Mississippi, and from the lakes on the north to the gulf region.

The weather bulletins from the West received at the central bureau here late last night reported a fall of forty-two degrees in Chicago and Cincinnati, and a fall of forty degrees in Indianapolis. The wave is moving rapidly eastward and reached Pittsburg early last evening, where a drop of thirty degrees was recorded. It passed over the mountains later in the evening, and the forecaster claimed that it should be felt here-early this morning, the prospects being that the weather will be clear early in the day and that it will continue so until af-er tomorrow. The wave has been snow in the West, but the fall has been dight and in flurries. In Tennessee the weather was below the freezing point all day yesterday. The thermometer went down to thirty-six degrees; on the Gulf Coast a fall of twe ty-four degrees being recorded at Mobile, twenty-eight degrees at New Orleans, and thirty-four degrees at Galveston The freezing point was reached at these places last night, and the probabilities are that the same was true of Northern to join Admiral Dewey's squadron. While

The fall in the temperature today will be general throughout the East, from Northern New York to the South At'antic States. The weather bureau states that an area of low barometric readings is responsible for the blizzard. The storm been attended by northerly and northwesterly winds, and the gale has northwesterly whos, and the gare has been blowing on the lakes. No wind is predicted here, however. It is possible that there will be flurries of snow in the here.

REPORT ON PUBLIC SCHOOLS. The Board of Trade Committee Discusses Education. Chairman A. P. Fardon, of the board of trade committee on public schools, yes-It is stated that Gen. Lope Recio Loy- terday submitted the annual report of the committee, to be incorporated in the eighth annual report of the board. The report says;

The rapidly increasing population of the District and the laudable interest by penter a list of the best men in the Cuban army, it being his desire to have them cation of necessity creates an increasing employed as policemen in the city and demand for school facilities. This demand should be met without hesitancy to the end that appropriations sufficiently here today on the steamer Mateo from tiberal shall be made that no one within our borders shall be denied or abridged in our borders shall be denied or abridged in school facilities from the age the child gen. Green today instructed Col. Young, receives its first impression to the point at which those impressions fructify and fit the child for active life. The State should not only furnish public education door, but enforce it by compulsory laws.

The pressing need for increased facili-ties is referred to. Owing to lack of room. the report states, it is found in some instances only practicable to extend school facilities to children in the third and fourth grades by holding half-day ses-sions. The report urges that the erection of public school buildings should be in advance of the school population; that there should be too much room instead of ot enough.

The results of investigations of public school methods in other cities is stated, the committee having heard from the su-perintendent of public schools in twentyfive cities, in different sections of the ountry. In none of the schools were non-resident children allowed to attend without paying a tultion fee, to cover the cost. unds necessary to repair school buildings, the education of the children of the and other important topics
